

UNDP unveils innovative new solutions to GBV to ensure no one is left behind

UNDP has partnered with the SVRI to share at the Cape Town Forum the most relevant findings from 6 pilot interventions that are currently testing new approaches to end gender-based violence. The UNDP pilot intervention in Uganda, for example, has already shed light on the different pathways to integrate safeguards and protective factors to prevent GBV into an environmental programme. The potential benefits of bringing a “GBV lens” into wider sectoral interventions is also being explored in an economic empowerment programme in Lebanon and in the education sector in Bhutan. In Peru, Moldova and Indonesia, local authorities have engaged their communities in participatory processes that have led to innovative solutions and new sources of funding to eradicate gendered violence and leave no one behind.

Their panel will take place on Tuesday 22nd October, details in the programme here
