With more than 5000 members, the Sexual Violence Research Initiative (SVRI) is one of the largest global research networks on sexual and intimate partner violence and related forms of violence in low- and middle-income countries.

As knowledge managers in the field, the SVRI funds, gathers, develops, distils and disseminates knowledge for improving policy and practice. We facilitate knowledge exchange and sharing by providing colleagues with a variety of digital and face to face communication platforms to network, learn, discuss, influence and develop innovations to strengthen prevention of and response for sexual violence and related types of violence in low and middle income countries. The SVRI is hosted by the South African Medical Research Council.

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

It is my pleasure to welcome you all to the Sexual Violence Research Initiative Forum 2017. I thank you all for joining us in this beautiful city of Rio de Janeiro.

The SVRI Coordinating Group took a decision a few years back to hold the Forum in Latin America and the Caribbean. At that time, this decision felt like a remote dream, but look at us now – here we are holding our fifth global conference in Rio.

The field is on a cusp of major change - new knowledge is being generated on an unprecedented scale, whilst the Forum takes place at time when the world has embarked on the Sustainable Development Goals which for the first time recognize the importance of addressing violence against women and violence against children for sustainable development. The SVRI Forum 2017 is a timely space to discuss and share strategies for achieving SDG targets aimed at ending all forms of violence against women and against children.

The theme for the Forum is partnerships for policy action. Sexual violence and intimate partner violence are complex problems requiring complex solutions – there is no one group or innovation that will solve the problem. We need multiple players, working in partnership across multiple platforms over a long period of time.

We encourage you to use the SVRI Forum to renew old partnerships, strengthen existing ones and embark on new ones. It is your platform for cross-sectoral, cross-discipline deliberation and debate. Take time to reach out to others – work together to develop shared understandings / language to talk about sexual violence and other forms of violence; extend your understanding of what are effective, evidence informed response and prevention programmes; and take what you have learnt to further strengthen your research, funding programmes and response and prevention programmes.

We have a diverse programme - with over 345 presentations from across all regions of the world on sexual violence, intimate partner violence, violence against children, and under-researched populations and regions. There are presentations on new studies and innovative approaches and new ways in which violence is being perpetrated through virtual platforms – but also the positive role of virtual spaces for responding to and preventing violence.

New this year is a theme on young people and participatory methods. A number of young people are at the Forum for the first time. A big shout at to the young people present...we are happy you are here with us helping to ensure youth voices are "Being Heard". The young people will engage in the event in multiple ways - please do say hi and discuss with them ways in which to engage young people in your research.

Your comments and ideas for strengthening the Forum have been considered. We have added interactive content panels where intervention developers will share the content of their intervention. For those developing interventions, these panels provide time to discuss what we need to consider when doing so.

We have introduced a new format called the “Science Pitch” – a short presentation on your research using an electronic version poster. This means that posters are now integrated into the main conference programme and costs have been reduced as you no longer have to print or transport your poster. We hope that through pursuing the Science Pitch approach we are building the field by giving you an opportunity to showcase your research in one or two sentences. We know this may be challenging but the Forum is the place for us to try out new things.

Other presentation styles and formats have been integrated into the oral programme – with some panels adopting a moderated discussion approach to explore the research and implications of the findings for the field. We continue to strive to address North-South inequities in research – we have asked presenters to ensure where possible and appropriate the involvement of local partners in Forum presentations.

The Forum is and must remain a protected safe space for all of us. We do this work because we care. Sometimes, because we care, this work can be emotionally hard. The topics presented, the discussions we have, can trigger strong emotions. None of us are immune. Information on online / phone in counselling services is available in your conference bags. There is also information on preventing vicarious trauma in your conference bags. Should you need additional support please let someone from the SVRI team know and they will link you up with support.

An event of this magnitude cannot come into being without the support of many sponsors and partners – all the Forum partners and sponsors, abstract reviewers, technical advisory groups, pre-conference workshop facilitators and others are listed in the conference programme. Please accept my heartfelt thanks for your tireless support and generosity. In partnership we will succeed - our loyal and supportive partners ensure that SVRI Forum continues to be a roaring success.

Thank you again....

Our union makes us stronger....A união faz a força

SVRI Forum App
Keep up to date - use the SVRI Forum app to:
- See full conference programme and schedule
- Create your own personalised schedule
- Connect with other participants
- Find sessions, activities and other participants based on interest tags
- Evaluate the Forum and presentations via app evaluation forms

SVRI Forum App is powered by Whova. Download the Whova App from Google Play or iTunes stores. Login to Whova using the same email address you used to register for SVRI Forum 2017.

Presenters’ Booth
All presentations must be uploaded at least 24 hours prior to your presentation at the Presenters’ Booth.

Being Safe
Many of us have been to large international events before, whilst for some of us this is the first time to travel internationally or locally. We all care deeply about this work. Let’s all work together to make SVRI Forum a safe space to share ideas and innovations. Should you find the event overwhelming please reach out to a staff member and they will guide you to an appropriate service.

Rio de Janeiro has a reputation of insecurity and being unsafe. Nothing is more important than your safety and security – please take care and be cautious when moving outside of the hotel.

Participant Led Events
Enjoy the multitude of participant led events at the Forum. See programme for more details.

Change the Story, Change the World
Telling stories is a powerful way to capture attention, engage an audience and motivate action. Learn the craft of storytelling at the Storytelling Workshop on Friday, 10:00 – 13:00pm. Facilitated by the Goodman’s Centre’s Director, Andy Goodman, it is an opportunity not to be missed.
Being Heard
SVRI Forum is actively engaging young people in the Forum. Reach out to them, meet them, and talk to them about your research. Come meet them at the SVRI stand in the exhibition hall.

APPLY FOR A RESEARCH AWARD!

THE SVRI WORLD BANK GROUP (WBG) DEVELOPMENT MARKETPLACE AWARD

The SVRI and WBG have launched a new open call for awards recognizing promising innovations aimed at preventing gender-based violence. Applications to the SVRI WBG Development Marketplace for Innovation in Prevention of Gender-Based Violence must be received online by October 6, 2017. The SVRI and WBG will disburse more than US$1 million to advance evidence-based interventions to prevent gender-based violence in low- and middle-income countries. An expert panel will select winners engaged in research, interventions, or other activities related to GBV prevention based on overall merit, research/project design and methods, significance, project manager/team, and ethical considerations. Visit http://www.svri.org/what-we-do/research-support/svri-grant for more information.

SVRI Forum aims to be:

Dynamic:
Mixing oral presentations, special sessions, films, exhibitions and social activities to maximise interactions between participants, speakers and presenters.

Innovative:
Sharing of new, cutting edge research and interventions in the field and creative mechanisms for research communication, dissemination and uptake.

Capacity Building:
Building expertise in research methods and practice to develop a cadre of researchers doing excellent rigorous research and conversant with how to use evidence to influence policy and programme development.

Participative and Interactive:
Encouraging active participation throughout the Forum events and presentations, and fostering discussion, interaction and networking.

Multigenerational:
Promoting participation from young to senior researchers. Speaker experience is considered when developing conference sessions, aiming to ensure a mix of both new and emerging researchers with global experts.

Equitable:
Promoting meaningful, real north-south, south-north, south-south, as well as researcher-activist and researcher-policy-maker partnerships.

Focused on Low and Middle-Income Countries:
Building evidence for improved responses and prevention efforts in low and middle-income countries is what SVRI is all about, and is a priority for all our events.
JOAQUÍN MOLINA

Dr. Joaquín Molina, a Cuban national, obtained a degree in stomatology in 1977 from the Instituto Superior de Ciencias Médicas in Havana, Cuba. In 1988, he obtained a master’s degree as a Specialist in Public Health Theory and Administration from the School of Public Health of the same institution and a certificate in epidemiology from Semmelweis University in Budapest, Hungary. From 1989 to 1990 he studied under the PAHO Training Program in International Health. Dr. Molina began his professional career in 1977 as a stomatologist, later becoming Municipal Director in Las Tunas Province, Cuba. In 1981, he was appointed as professor in the Instituto Superior de Ciencias Médicas. From 1984 to 1989, he worked for the Cuban’s Ministry of Public Health in the National Stomatology Bureau and subsequently, as Coordinator of International Technical Cooperation. He began his collaboration with PAHO/WHO in January 1991, working as a consultant for the Program on Health Services in Washington, D.C. From July 1991 to 2003 he served as Consultant on Health Systems and Services Development in Nicaragua and Mexico, and in 2003 and 2004, as acting Representative in Mexico. In 2005 Dr. Molina was appointed Representative in Guatemala, and in 2009, Representative in Panama. Since March 2012 he has been Representative in Brazil.

JACQUELINE PITANGUY

Jacqueline Pitanguy, a sociologist and political scientist, is the Founder and Director of Cidadania, Estudo, Pesquisa, Informação e Ação (CEPIA), a non-governmental organization based in Rio de Janeiro. At CEPIA Ms. Pitanguy coordinates research on gender issues and facilitates advocacy and educational programs relating to violence against women and reproductive health. She has been a Professor at the Pontificia Universidade Católica de Rio de Janeiro and at Rutgers University, where she held the Laurie New Jersey Chair in Women’s Studies from 1991-92. She held a cabinet position as President of the National Council for Women’s Rights (1986-89), designing and implementing public policies to improve women’s condition in Brazil. Ms. Pitanguy serves on a number of international boards, including the Inter-American Dialogue, the Institute for Education of UNESCO, the Society for International Development, the Global Fund for Women, and the International Human Rights Council, headed by former President Jimmy Carter at the Carter Center. She has published extensively and serves on the editorial boards of Harvard University’s Health and Human Rights Review, Sao Paulo’s Council of Medicine Review, and UNICEF’s International Review of Education. Her work “Women’s Citizenship and Human Rights: The Case of Brazil” was included in A Diplomacy of the Oppressed (1995). Ms. Pitanguy speaks widely in national and international fora on reproductive health and gender issues. She is a recipient of the Medal of Rio Branco, the highest decoration of the Brazilian Ministry of Foreign Affairs.
EMMA FULU

Dr Emma Fulu is the Founder and Director of The Equality Institute, which works to advance all forms of equality and prevent violence against women through scientific research, innovation and creative communications. She has a PhD from the University of Melbourne and 15 years of experience leading large-scale research and primary prevention projects on violence against women across Asia, Africa and the Pacific. Previously, Emma was based in South Africa as Technical Lead of the DFID-funded £25 million global program What Works to Prevent Violence against Women and Girls. Before that she led the ground-breaking United Nations Multi-Country Study on Men and Violence in Asia and the Pacific. Emma presents and publishes widely on the issue of violence against women. She is the author of the book Domestic Violence in Asia: Globalization, gender and Islam in the Maldives and blogs for the Huffington Post UK. The mother of three young children, Emma lives in Melbourne, Australia and also writes about motherhood and feminism in her personal blog, I Am Not Superwoman.

COLLEEN VARCOE

Dr. Colleen Varcoe is a professor in the School of Nursing at the University of British Columbia. Her research focuses on violence and inequity, with an emphasis on both structural and interpersonal violence. Her completed research includes studies of the risks and health effects of violence, including for rural and Indigenous women. Her current research includes studies to promote equity (including cultural safety, harm reduction, and trauma- and violence-informed care) in primary health care and emergency and studies of health interventions for women who have experienced violence, most recently for Indigenous women.

BRISA DE ANGULO

Brisa De Angulo is CEO and founder of A Breeze of Hope Foundation/Centro Una Brisa de Esperanza, which is Bolivia’s first center providing free transdisciplinary legal, social, and psychological services to child survivors of sexual violence. Brisa is a pioneer in her field, having successfully implemented for 13 years a child-directed service model that focuses on access to justice, personal healing, relational healing, political participation, economic independence, and education. Brisa has used her 17 years of experience working with early childhood education and 13 years of experience working with sexual violence prevention to refine her model and share best practices with advocates throughout her region. Since opening in 2004, Brisa’s center has maintained a 95% conviction rate in the hundreds of criminal trials it has managed, has educated over 85,000 people (including government officials) in sexual violence prevention, and has provided free direct services to over 1,600 child survivors and their supportive family members.

Brisa is also a powerful advocate before the Inter-American Commission on Human Rights. Brisa’s sustained efforts are helping to reshape Bolivia’s justice system and improve its treatment of child survivors. Brisa is also co-author of 10 books on sexual violence and childhood development and has conducted landmark research on sexual violence in Bolivia.

17 SEPTEMBER 2017

AN INTERNATIONAL MULTI-STAKEHOLDER MEETING ON DISRESPECT AND ABUSE IN CHILDBIRTH (OBSTETRIC VIOLENCE)

Time: 9:00 – 17:00
Venue: Leme
Hosted by: Reproductive Health Matters, World Health Organization, Grupo Curumim Gestação e Parto

Reproductive Health Matters (in partnership with WHO and Grupo Curumim) is convening a multi-stakeholder meeting, inviting researchers, policymakers, healthcare professionals and activists with the aim of generating a priority research agenda on disrespect and abuse in childbirth. The aim of the meeting is to review existing evidence, identifying data gaps and agreeing on research priorities, ensuring the perspectives of researchers, civil society and other actors from the region. The meeting will also present a great opportunity to discuss the concept of obstetric violence versus disrespect and abuse in childbirth, among other terms, and allow participants to share experiences and forge closer collaborations. The specific objectives are: i. to discuss the term OV and alternative terminology, such as disrespect and abuse, and understand the rationale for and against the use of these terms; ii. to present available evidence and share experiences of interventions from the region as well from other regions; iii. to identify research gaps and develop a priority research agenda; iv. to invite selected papers for publication in the RHM journal and v. to allow for international networking and closer collaboration between actors.

UNDERSTANDING AND USING RESEARCH FOR PREVENTING VIOLENCE AGAINST WOMEN AND GIRLS: POLICYMAKERS’ AND DONORS’ SATELLITE MEETING (CLOSED MEETING)

Time: 09:00 – 16:00
Venue: Urca
Hosted by: What Works, World Health Organization, UN Women, UKAID

Using rigorous evidence to prevent violence against women and girls (VAWG) is key to successful policy and programmatic decision-making. This satellite meeting will equip donors and policy makers with requisite knowledge and skills to interpret research findings to inform decision-making for VAWG prevention, and introduce the UN Prevention Framework to end Violence against Women, demonstrating how to use the framework to build prevention in different countries. The event brings together experts in VAWG research and programming; including presentations from Drs Kristin Dunkle and Esnat Chirwa, South African Medical Research Council, a representative from UN Women and Dr Claudia Garcia Moreno, WHO.
Exploring the Links Between Intimate Partner Violence and Family Planning Use: Building Knowledge for Normative Change to Promote Adolescent and Youth Sexual and Reproductive Health

Time: 17:00 – 19:00
Venue: Urca
Hosted by: Tearfund and Georgetown University’s Institute for Reproductive Health (IRH) Passages Project Gender-based Violence Task Team
www.passagesproject.org and Co-sponsored by Promundo

Research identifies gender-based violence (GBV), particularly intimate partner violence (IPV), as an important barrier to family planning (FP) uptake. Nevertheless, the influence of GBV and IPV on FP use is not well understood or researched. This consultation will present findings from research by Passages and partners examining the intersection of these two areas, capturing existing programming on these linkages, identifying where there are gaps in related knowledge and practice, and exploring the implications for work on shifting social and gender norms on IPV and FP in order to promote adolescent and youth sexual and reproductive health.

UN Coordinated Strategies to Prevent and Respond to Violence

Time: 17:00 – 19:00
Venue: Ipanema
Hosted by: UN Women

Women’s right to live free from violence is upheld by international agreements such as CEDAW and the 1993 UN Declaration on the Elimination of Violence against Women and The elimination of all forms of violence against women, as a target area (Sustainable Development Goal 5.2) is included in Agenda 2030 under Goal 5. In order to address violence against women effectively, the UN is advocating for a comprehensive and human-rights based approach that addresses legislation and policies, prevention, services for survivors, research and data. This side-event will present specific UN coordinated initiatives (UN Prevention Framework, Essential Services Programme) and some initial lessons-learned.

Coalition of Feminists for Social Change (Closed Meeting)

Time: 17:00 – 19:00
Venue: Leme
Hosted by: COFEM

Towards Global Minimum Standards for Prevention & Response to Gender Based Violence in Emergencies

Time: 17:00 – 19:00
Venue: Vidigal
Hosted by: United Nations Population Fund (UNFPA), Emily Krasnor, Gender Based Violence in Emergencies Specialist

While Gender Based Violence (GBV) is pervasive in times of peace, during conflict or natural disaster – when support systems are weakened – the risk of violence against women & girls is heightened. Such conditions make strengthening the provision and coordination of humanitarian response critical to upholding the dignity and rights of all affected persons. The session will engage attendees to explore the case for the development of “Global Minimum Standards” that provide clear and unambiguous guidance, for safe, ethical, survivor-centered GBV prevention and response.

<td>Faith plays a powerful influence on the lives of communities including survivors. Spiritual healing or well-being is a key aspect of the overall well-being of survivors as expressed by them so there is a real need to explore ways in which the global community explores, understands and works with faith in SGBV. Efforts are needed to promote partnerships between faith groups and other key stakeholders including researchers to begin to explore the role of faith in SGBV prevention and response. As a process of bridging the gap between faith groups and other key stakeholders this session seeks to highlight the following: Share and discuss findings from Tearfund research on the role of faith in prevention and response to SGBV. Present an overview of evidence for faith groups’ activity and contribution to SGBV prevention and care, based on JLI SGBV Scoping Study. Understand the faith language, expressions and the real meaning of the same. Explore the mechanisms and approaches for developing good practice standards for faith response to SGBV. Identify key learning and tools to work with faith communities, and what additional tools are needed; and Launch the JLI SGBV Learning Hub.</td>

<td>STRENGTHENING THE GBV REGIONAL STRATEGY IN IPPF/WHR. (CLOSED SESSION) FOR MEMBER ASSOCIATIONS OF IPPF/WHR</td>
<td>9:00am – 12:00pm</td>
<td>Board room</td>
<td>International Planned Parenthood Federation / Western Hemisphere Region</td>
<td>IPPF Member Associations are committed to provide high quality integrated sexual and reproductive health services. GBV services (GBV detection, counseling and internal/external referrals in clinical settings) is one of the eight essential services the Associations are already providing. During 2016 IPPF’s Member Association in the Americas and the Caribbean provided almost a million GBV services. However, we can do more and better for our clients. WHR regional office is taking advantage of the opportunity of the SVRI Forum 2017 to present and discuss some concrete tools to strengthening our common goals.</td>

1. SVRI AND BEING HEARD

   As knowledge managers in the field, the SVRI funds, gathers, develops, distills and disseminates knowledge for improving practice. The SVRI is hosted by the South African Medical Research Council. “Being Heard” is a collaborative project between SVRI and the International Centre. Funded by the Oak Foundation, the project aims to build the knowledge and develop the skills of SVRI members and affiliates to undertake participatory research on sexual violence against children and youth. Come and meet the young people to discuss ways to meaningfully and ethically engage young people in research on sexual violence.

WHAT WORKS TO PREVENT VIOLENCE

A Global Programme to Prevent Violence Against Women and Girls

The What Works to Prevent Violence Against Women and Girls Global Programme is a flagship programme from the UK Department for International Development, which is investing an unprecedented £25 million over five years to the prevention of violence against women and girls. It supports primary prevention efforts across Africa, Asia and the Middle East, that seek to understand and address the underlying causes of violence, and to stop it from occurring.
